I recently took my 2 daughters and their friend, to Paris (ages 8,11, and 11). I bought them each a copy of this book, and it was wonderful! This will have your children seeking out details in famous paintings, architectural anomalies, and give them fun facts about famous Parisians and history. It was a life saver, when waiting in long lines ;). I would definitely recommend this! -J.A. Whatilike My daughters (7 and 9 years old) were very excited with Mission Paris. I believe they enjoyed the city much more with this adventure. Easy, fun and different! We wouldn't have had such a wonderful trip without Mission Paris. I truly recommend it. -Dulce Zorilla I highly recommend this book for any parent looking for a fun way to engage their youngster in discovering the wonders of Paris...and the book turned out to be equally fun for the adults, giving us a new "take" on Paris...This book would be appealing for a wide range of ages. -R.S. in SF

Customer Reviews

This is the first book I've read in the Scavenger Hunt Adventure series and have found it to be excellent and of extremely high quality. It is aimed at children in the 8-11 years age range, but would equally suit older teenagers. Adults, too, could certainly use the book as a tour guide. It is well written, beautifully and colourfully presented, with an arresting cover indicative of the general theme. Inside is a clear map showing the location of Paris globally and within France. The aim of the book is to give children on holiday with their family something interesting and exciting to focus on. It presents tasks and investigations in a lively and fun way. On successful completion of each task, points are allocated, the ultimate goal being to reach a score of 100. Reaching this goal enables participants to become a Secret International Agency (SIA) special agent. Parents/trusted adults are asked to perform the role of case officers, and must accompany the children and supervise them during the tasks. SIA special agents secretly collect intelligence from around the world. The books present agents as holding a privileged position which should certainly appeal to children's imagination and competitiveness. The book stresses that only a few have what it takes to join. The tasks are presented as a series of seventeen missions, all clearly listed on a Contents page which allows agents and case officers to navigate easily through the book, along with a list of mission rules. The missions are varied and exciting, and include historical information about each location. Most of the major sites around Paris are visited, including the Eiffel Tower, the Louvre and the Champs-Élysées.
